Validating the Struggle

Let's be honest...

Teaching English to high school students — Gen Z — is a unique adventure, isn't it?

- ✓ Blank stares?
- ✓ Silence?
- ✓ Scrolling under the desk?

It is tough to compete with TikTok and Instagram!

Today is all about ACTION!
Let's play, move and yes...
we might get a little loud!

3

Our Agenda – 3 Hours Together

1

Icebreakers that build vocabulary without them realizing it.

2

Turn boring reading & grammar into active, moving games.

3

Micro-speaking activities to make even the quietest students speak.

4

Create your own mini-activity and show it off!

Our 2 Ground Rules

1

Forget you are a teacher for the next 3 hours. Let your inner teenager out! Make mistakes, laugh, and have fun.

2

Be fully present. We are going to learn by doing, not by watching.

4

The Launch

So, are we ready to transform our classrooms from quiet zones into high-engagement zones?

(Wait for cheers/yes)

Let's not waste another second...
Stand up, step away from your tables,
and look at the person next to you!

Our first challenge starts right now...

Transition to Icebreaker

Excellent! Now, before we talk about how to make our students speak English, let's prove that we can do it ourselves!

Please stand up, find a partner, and get ready for your first challenge.

Your first mission is called...

TWO TRUTHS AND ONE LIE!

Are you ready to play?

Let's get moving, teachers!
English is not just a subject we teach.
It is a language we use!

8

Icebreaker Game

TWO TRUTHS AND ONE LIE

How to Play:

- 1 Write three statements about yourself (2 true, 1 lie).
- 2 Share with your partner.
- 3 Guess which statement is a lie.
- 4 We'll invite some of you to share with the whole group.

Let's Play!

Example: Meet Your Trainer

- 1 I have taught English for more than ten years.
- 2 I have never made a mistake while speaking English.
- 3 I enjoy creating interactive learning activities.

Which statement
do you think is a lie?

- ☐ 1 Statement 1
- ☐ 2 Statement 2
- ☐ 3 Statement 3

This is just an example.
Feel free to adjust
with your own facts.

After the Icebreaker...

You were speaking English,
asking questions, listening carefully,
and laughing together.

And I didn't ask you to complete a grammar worksheet!

So, if this activity works for us,
how can we adapt it for our students?

Let's Keep the Energy Going!

This is not just a workshop.
It's the beginning of something amazing for your classrooms!

Thank You!

For your energy, your creativity,
and your commitment to our students.

Let's continue to inspire,
innovate, and make English learning meaningful!

Because great teachers don't just teach English.
They create opportunities for students to use English.

Keep Inspiring! ♥
